

To Whom it May Concern, I Have only recently subscribed to XM satelite radio and while I do not live in an area which is covered in the regional traffic and weather broadcasts, I would find it useful. I will be moving to a larger city which would be covered by these broadcasts and I know that I will make use of them. Basically I pay for this service, and I pay for this service because it does its best to offer as much content as possible for a moderate monthly price, any effort to reduce the amount of content this service can offer would be an interference and not appreciated. This is a premium service that should not be limited by outside interference, and that is why it is worth paying for.

Sincerely
Wes Hadzor
